AN Indian ascended the mountain with a firm, though tired, step. The mountain was steep, and he paused at the top to rest. As he looked sadly down upon the fertile lands and forests, he recognized many landmarks; for this had been his home for several years. Now the white man had told him that he must find other places in which his tribe might hunt and fish. He was saddened at the thought of leaving all the familiar spots, but he knew that beyond the mountain lay other broad plains and swiftly flowing rivers.

The mountain that we have been climbing is that of our High School education. We have reached the summit; and perhaps we, too, are sorry to leave the familiar places. But beyond our school days are waiting new pleasures and new joys. And in the years to come, as we look through this book and see the faces of our classmates, each one will remind us of the pleasant years we spent here.

CLASS SONG

Thou whose banners still will lead us
Ever onward down life's way,
Thy rich blessings we shall treasure,
Helping us through every day.

With high ideals and strength to hold them
Planted in our youth by thee,
Fortress of a mighty nation,
Cornerstone of Liberty.

So we leave thee, singing praises,
And before us toil and stress.
May we always feel the guiding
Spirit of C. H. L. S.

We will ever to thy teachings
Always true and loyal be.
Holding fast to thy high standards,
We will pledge our lives to thee.

Isabel Furey

Dear Alma Mater, we near the parting of the ways;
We leave you but your mem'ry with us stays.
You spurred us on to do great things
And now to them we rise as if on wings.

As we did tread the primrose path of youth
Naught did we think of the world uncouth,
But you, our Alma Mater, had our good in mind
When you put an education before us to find.

And now, prepared are we to face what may come
With a ready smile, a whistle and hum,
For you, our Alma Mater, has supplied,
The lack that Nature hath at birth denied.

And now as we set forth the world to meet
The better prepared with a learning replete—
To take our place in the whirl of life,
High or low, subject to our strength in strife,

We must discern in this world's fog, dense,
The seat of success, we shall hold, from whence
We'll look back and you shall we bless,
Dear Alma Mater, our source of happiness.

When our sands' shifting is ceasing, e'en then,
Shall we dream of you as the pollen
That fed our desire and will to succeed
For which, we'll be faithful to you in word and in deed,

C. H. L. S.

David A. Nathans

"READING MAKETH A FULL MAN; CONFERENCE A READY MAN; WRITING AN EXACT MAN"—Bacon.

BACON wrote truly, carefully, and wisely; and the Class of 1926 has profited by his doctrines; but to speak of the various studies, their effect upon the students, and their value in later life would be rather dull and uninteresting. Allow it to be said that the Class of 1926 studied twenty-four hours per day regularly and sometimes put in an extra hour or two.

"HOPE SPRINGS ETERNAL IN THE BREAST."

With an unrestrained shout of joy, the Class of 1926 stormed the portals of the Cambridge High and Latin School on a warm September day in 1922. Great were the expectations of future happiness which filled the mind of every member of our class; and those expectations have not gone unfulfilled! Later, in the evening of that day, the class came out of the school with their faces shining like the sun, or rather, the moon. Deep in their hearts was the conviction that they had at last reached the kingdom of their dreams; a palatial abode which only afforded celestial play. There were to be four whole years of mirth and bliss!

"KNOWLEDGE BEGINS A GENTLEMAN."

The first year, commonly called, "The Freshman Year", passed quickly in study and pursuit of higher learning. Few were the social activities except participation in those of the Junior and Senior classes of that year. It was truly a year devoted to books and pencils, as well as departmental examinations!

"HE IS NOT THE FOOL WHO THE FOOL IS, BUT HE WHO WITH THE FOOL DEALS."

Once more joyous laughter rang through the school. We were Sophomores; that is, wise fools; but, as it has often been said, "It is better to be a wise fool than a foolish wit!" During this year, so many athletes of the Class of 1926 gained places on the first teams that the coaches realized that ours was a very remarkable class and would contribute many laurels to the school's already large list of accomplishments. In 1922 there was organized a school band which was composed of various members of the school orchestra, and it accompanied the cheering section at the football games to the enjoyment of all. Social activities, as in the Freshman year, were not yet the vogue, but Sophomores occasionally took part in entertainments given by the upper classmen, so that they became known throughout the school.

"KNOWLEDGE INCREASES DAY BY DAY."

When the Junior Year was reached, we flattered ourselves by the name, or rather, the 'nom-de-plume' of "Upperclassmen". From the beginning of the year social activities were recognized as being second only to studies. When the Junior election votes were counted, it was disclosed that John Groden had been elected Class President. A truly remarkable person was John Groden; one of the best athletes on the 1923 and 1924 teams, a popular student, and an awing President. With equal good luck, the class chose: Catherine Martin as Vice President; David Dudley as Treasurer; and Joseph Maloney as Secretary. The Junior "Prom" was the greatest success the school had ever witnessed. It was held at Elks' Ballroom (the best ballroom in Cambridge) and Leo Reisman's Orchestra played (or, furnished the music, as some writers say). Indeed, it was a huge success.

"MAN LIVES ONE-HALF HIS LIFE BY DECEIT AND ART, AND THE OTHER HALF BY ART AND DECEIT."

Finally, after considerable toil and trouble, we reached the Senior Year, the fourth year, and the last. Here, before going to the activities of the class, let us express our appreciation of the help given by the under classmen in making all of our socials successes. When one becomes a Senior, he realizes what a help he is to the school, and what a help the school is to him. He understands that the Senior Class depends on the aid of the other three classes in support of its various activities. It recalls to memory:—

> "Big bugs have little bugs upon their backs to bite 'em;
> Little bugs have smaller bugs and so 'ad infinitum!'"

After a much contested vote, Lawrence Gibson was elected President of the Senior Class, while Dorothy Gray was chosen as Vice President, Joseph Maloney as Treasurer, and Francis Donovan as Secretary. The social activities of the Senior Year were begun by President Gibson's outlining the work to be accomplished.

"The Cambridge Review" with James S. Jennison as editor-in-chief had five of the most interesting issues ever published.

A new club named, "The Literary Club" was started in January of 1926. It had not only an extensive bearing on the literary endeavors of the class as seen in the Review and the Year Book, but also was the means of raising unprecedented interest in outside literary and scientific work. Miss Butler was Faculty adviser of the club. We are sure that this club will be one of the most popular and successful clubs in the years to come.

"Mice and Men", the Senior Drama, was the most successful play ever given by a Senior Class due to the excellent work of Miss Hartigan and her talented cast.

In the spring, James S. Jennison was chosen as editor-in-chief of the Year Book with an editorial staff of ten members. Plans were immediately undertaken to make this Year Book far better than any previous one; and we shall let you judge for yourself whether or not we have fulfilled our plans. Our motto has been: "Give but the best, for only the best is due!"

Another new club named, "The Philosophy Club" was started late in the spring of 1926 for the purpose of creating interest in philosophy. Under the supervision of Mr. Derry as faculty adviser, great progress has been made. We are sure that the future classes will carry on the good work thus far advanced.

With the same success experienced in other activities of the class, the Senior Social was held at the Beech Street Bungalow on April 9, 1926.

In the meantime, the second recess period on every Thursday saw an assembly of Seniors gathered in the school hall to discuss methods which were to be used in conducting the business end of Senior life. Several talented musicians and speakers, through the courtesy of Miss Hartigan and Mr. Whoriskey, furnished some excellent entertainment alternately with the class business.

It was decided that the Senior Reception should be held after graduation. This was perhaps the most joyous and happy affair the Senior class has held, and the reasons are obvious!

As this history must of necessity be greatly condensed, suffice it to be said that anything, not mentioned, which was in any way connected with the Cambridge High and Latin School was supervised with success by our class—the Class of 1926.

Now, the chapter of our lives written during the four years spent very profitably at Cambridge High and Latin is finished; and we pass on to our various pursuits in life, which is so well told in the following story:—

"A blazing sun leaped from the east and mounted the Heavens proudly, arrogantly; but Night, the steady plodder, o'ercame him without effort, slowly, surely; and when again she drew aside her sable veil, lo, another Day was born to triumph his short hour and wane and die."

TO C. H. L. S.

Once more I see my Freshman Class
As gingerly its way it picks
When through your portals wide we pass
The Class of 1 9 2 6.

Then gath'ring courage day by day,
We reach the rank of Sophomore;
And storing knowledge on the way,
We journey towards the Junior door.

Then working with a right good will,
We study and advance yet more
In lessons that continue still
To tax our brains just as of yore.

The Senior year, the hardest year,
Is slowly drawing to an end.
Then through the doors of our school dear
The class its eager way will wend.

C. H. L. S. you were our friend;
You helped us o'er the stoney way;
Our earnest thanks we now extend
Before we part from you to-day.

P. J. McC.

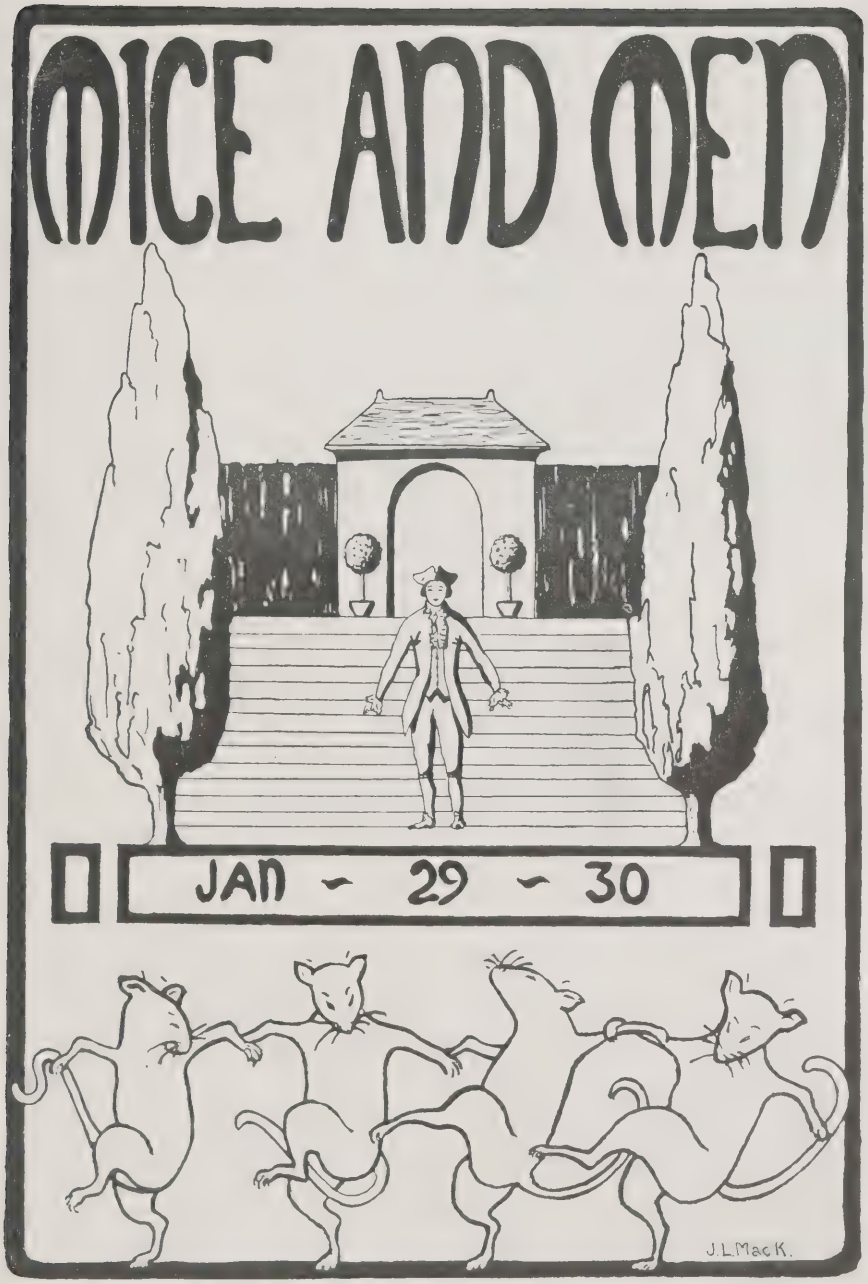

SALVE ATQUE VALE

Salve! We greet you, the cares,
The troubles, duties, and strife.
Vale! We bid you farewell,
The care-free, high-school life.

Salve! All hail to the new,
Untried adventures before.
Vale! We leave you, old school,
To sail for a distant shore.

And if we never come back,
Sometime, in our loneliness,
We'll think of days that are gone,
And friends at C. H. L. S.

We Seniors are to be pardoned if we appear to boast, but we truly believe that this year's Drama has held its own with those of the foregoing years, and even with such masterpieces as "Beau Brumel" and Disraili" occupying such high niches in the histrionic history of C. H. L. S.

The theme of the play consisted of a theory, held by a certain scholarly gentleman, Mr. Embury, to the effect that women—to come up to his standard of womanhood—should be trained from infancy—"trained in sweet simplicity", "fearless as the Spartan wives", "unable to deceive". To realize this theory, he experimented by adopting a ward from the Foundling hospital much to the consternation and unconcealed scorn of his friend, Mr. Goodlake.

The part of Mr. Embury was very well rounded out and excellently presented by "Joe" Curtin. Joe showed great dramatic ability, and we appreciated him even more because he was so much out of character as all his friends will testify to his happy-go-lucky disposition—very unlike the settled Mr. Embury if we do say so.

Mr. Embury began his theory by choosing, from among the orphans brought from the Home, a beautiful blond child whom afterward he named Peggy. "Peggy" was played by Margery Gerould. She was extremely intriguing in all her moods, and her sweetness—not merely assumed for the evening— captivated us all. We did not wonder at Mr. Embury's choice, but secretly complimented his taste.

But, as in all plays, we must have the debonair young hero who was none other than our esteemed president, Lawrence Gibson. He was Mr. Embury's nephew, and, apparently, with little trouble, managed to keep us in suspense during the entire play by his affairs, the most important of which was his falling in love with Peggy. As we know, he won her in the end; and at first we were disposed to pity Mr. Embury because of the defeat of his treasured plans, but as "bachelorhood has its charms"—or so we are told—perhaps he wasn't so unhappy.

Mr. Embury's friend, Roger Goodlake, was played, and admirably too, by "Don" Finlayson. Roger is a blustering individual, inclined to be boastful, and thinking himself irresistable with the ladies. We liked "Don's" work very much, and enjoyed his quick changes—on the appearance of his wife, Joanna—from the swaggering Roger to the obedient husband, Mr. Goodlake.

Roger Goodlake's wife, Joanna, was taken by Dorothy Gray, and it was not long before we intensely disliked this shallow, insincere person. She succeeded in treating every one badly in general; and—at intervals—each one in particular. "Dot" played this part so well, and put herself so much in character that we forgot that she was the lovable even-tempered "Dot Gray", and thought of her only as the sly Joanna.

Mark Embury's housekeeper,—or "female flunky" as Roger scornfully put it,—was enacted by Pauline Lyon. The part could not have been played more successfully. Pauline never for a moment let us forget that Mrs. Deborah was a "respectable woman with a line of forebears". Pauline's quiet dignity made us like her immediately.

John Macbeth portrayed Mr. Embury's servant, Peter. We enjoyed him at all times, but we still do not know whether we are provoked or amused at his sudden entrance into that most important scene, when Mr. Embury was talking to Peggy, with a common every-day "A paper hanger to see you, Sir" said as only John could say it.

Molly, the kitchen maid, was played by Helen Legate, and she was so good that we wished she might have appeared more often.

The part of Kit Barniger might have been made for Maurice Levin so well did he fit into it, but Maurice is such a bashful, retiring sort of boy that we are inclined to think that he'd fit into any part.

Sir Harry Trimblestone, a very young, very affected, gentleman who is taken up with himself most of the time but occasionally with a pretty girl, was cleverly played by Norman Estey. We remember particularly his "You're a sly dog, Georgie—a sly dog." Yes, we liked his work very much.

Marion Evers was the Matron, and she managed the orphans quite successfully, although they squirmed so much that we are led to believe that Marion had her hands full.

The Beadle was Louis Klashman, and Louis' mild manner was quite swallowed up in this pompous domineering individual.

The orphans were played by eight of our classmates. We could not but think —they looked so sweet and charming—that it must have been a fairy land from which they came instead of from the Foundling hospital; but there were the Matron and the Beadle standing guard, and we knew that they never could have come from any place but the bleak, dreary Home, so that they must have brought the orphans from there also.

We take this opportunity to thank again Miss Lillian Hartigan, the director of the play. We might stop and, at great length, discourse on her work, but it would be merely a repetition; so let it be sufficient to say that the success of this year's Drama is just another link in the chain of her successes and we know that it will not be the last.

We also take this opportunity to thank the Drama committee which was comprised of Margery Gerould, Helen Haley, Julia Nelligan, Lea Leahy, and Bill Flynn. Their untiring efforts in behalf of the Drama, getting out the program, refreshments, and other incidentals to the success of the Drama were greatly appreciated.

This account would be incomplete if we were to leave out the others who helped to make the Drama a success, the ushers, and candy girls.

SOCIALS

LAST May the Junior Promenade was held at The Elk's Ball Room in Central Square and was a complete social success. Through the efforts of Mr. Carney the class was fortunate in securing one of Leo Reisman's Orchestras. Of course, further description of the music is unnecessary. The committee in charge which was responsible for the success was as follows: John Groden, Don Finlayson, Catherine Martin, David Dudley, James S. Jennison, Bernadette Carney, Joe Maloney, and Aza Atwood.

The Senior Social took place April 9th at the Beech Street Bungalow and the music was furnished by Roy Lamson's Gold Coast Orchestra. The attendance was limited, only seventy-five couples being admitted. Since the admission was restricted to Seniors, that is, either the escort or the lady being such, the gathering was for the most part of our class and was conducted in our usual jolly style. The success of this year's social must be attributed to the committee, Haskell Freedman, Mary Plunkett, Bob Daley, George Norton, and Ray Parker who worked untiringly to make it so. However, back of all remained Miss Hartigan and Miss McElroy who contributed freely of their time both as advisers and patronesses. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and Mr. and Mrs. Bramhall were the other patrons and patronesses.

Like everything else the Senior class has undertaken, the reception which is to be held at Walker Memorial, June 11, will be the success that every one is predicting. For what else could it be in the hands of such a capable committee as Haskell Freedman, Mary Plunkett, Bob Daley, Ray Parker, and George Norton? The music will be furnished by Roy Lamson's Gold Coast Orchestra. Come, Seniors, is that not enough to tempt you? Show your class spirit and make the last social affair in which you will participate as a class, an outstanding success!

WHEN the task fell to our lot to write the Class Prophecy, we began to despair of its accomplishment. Every Year Book Staff, for years and years, has experienced the same sensation of hopelessness and woe. What to do? How to do it? Why should it be done? After much thought and more worry, we lighted upon a scheme which would aid us and place in the hands of the class a prophecy which would be not only interesting but accurate. We consulted the great soothsayer and seer Mustapha Kwarta. We asked him to foretell as much as he would of the future of our class and its members. What he told us we faithfully record here:

"The most esteemed Class of 1926 of the very excellent Cambridge High and Latin School will achieve an unprecedented success. The worthy shall gain fame and fortune. The unworthy shall survive simply because they are members of the great Class which graduated in 1926. Of your classmates I can select but a few, for my time is limited.

"That worthy sahib, the President of the Class, will become the foremost actor of these United States. On the high tablets of fame will be blazoned the names of Gray, Gerould, Curtin and Finlayson, Broadway stars whose talent shall live forever in the theatrical history of America. The Authors Society will be quick to grasp the opportunity of admitting Dorothy Hager, Harold Dow, Charles Mahady, and Whitney Pierce. The volume entitled 'The Best Poetry of 1950' will be filled with the poems of Paul McCann and Betty Mordecai.

"In 1954 Harvard will appoint as full professors: Beaumont Herman, of Latin; George Chaffee, of Philosophy; and P. Joseph Maloney, of Nature Lore. At the same time Radcliffe will announce the appointment to its faculty of: Julia Sweeney, English; Edith Kettell, History; and Priscilla Sage, French. The leaders of business and finance will shake with terror at the rapid rise of Horatio Lock, Edward Carlson, Joe Trainor, and Norman Estey.

"On glancing over the theatrical news in 1940 one will notice that the famous dancer, Lillian Duncan, is being starred in Freedman's Follies. She will be supported by the Nelligan Sisters in their world-famous act, and by Macbeth, the Singing Sailor. Many dramatic critics will remark on the beauty of the chorus, some of whom will be: Mesdames Helen Dunbar, Helen Haley, Lea Leahy, and Bernice Potter. If you should chance to come out by the stage entrance you'd probably stumble over 'Stage door Johnnie' Groden, whose eye for figures, financial and otherwise, is proverbial. One of the many famous Phil Lawrence Orchestras will furnish the music.

"Out west men will be men, and women Governors; but even here in conservative Cambridge we'll elect Bernadette Carney Mayor in 1950 with the consequent appointment of Frances Donovan, City Clerk. When interviewed, the Superintendent of schools, your classmate Ned Fitzgerald, will refuse to give out a statement on the election. He will be reported as aiding James S. Jennison, Editor of the American Mercury, in his campaign for the Presidency, David A. Nathans, the Attorney-General of the United States, will favor his election. Nathans' famous arguments, in which he will refute the theories of William Flynn, Justice of the United States Circuit Court, need not be mentioned here. Jennison will be violently opposed by Donald Carroll, who will make his annual attempt to have that obsolete piece of legislation known as the Volstead Act revived.

"Perhaps some day in the future you'll take in the show at the Metropolitan. Peg. Beauchamp and George Norton will be starred in 'Bleeding Hearts'. Norton will get his first chance at stardom when he wins the annual Boston Beauty Contest. Bob Daly and Henny Adelson will be featured in an old fashioned contest, like those sponsored by Henry Ford many years earlier, in which they'll illustrate that antiquated dance renowned for its grace—The Charleston.

"Leo Frazer, the great mechanical genius, will invent a machine even more popular than the famous Ford. It will be a huge success and with John Darrow as super-salesman the profits should be astounding. Darrow could sell an umbrella in the Sahara Desert.

"Across Broadway from C. H. L. S. your classmate, Alonzo Hilliard will open a restaurant worthy of the name. The waiters will be drawn from the class of '26. Joe O'Connell will preside at the cash register and the cooking will be supervised by Mabel White. Mary Plunkett in the year 1960 will swim the English channel for exercise, and then try the Straits of Gibralter. She will meet with success and will be immortalized by Marianne Carney in the poem entitled, 'Deep Sea Fish', which will be set to music and sung by Janice McKinnon and Germaine Bouttine.

"Some individuals are, of course, doomed to disappointment. Sidney Ball, for instance, will not flourish as a litterateur, but will gain a scant livelihood writing advertisements. These ads will be designed by the Art Thompson Art Corp. Thompson is destined to achieve success as a commercial artist and he will try to keep in touch with his classmates by attending every exhibition of portraits by Evelyn Bresnan. Then too, I have a suspicion that Charlie Good will become a member of the local police force. He's bound to be inside the jail in some capacity.

"Russell Wood, as Sporting Editor of the Herald, will be a good fellow to go to for tips. He'll probably advise you to watch Fred Meuse in the Marathon. Wood's biographies of Gerry Sullivan and Leon Fitzgerald, in the American Athletes series, will be well worth reading.

"Now, after having drawn aside, for your benefit, a portion of that impenetrable veil that screens the future, I'll call it a day," said Mustapha Kwarta, "how about my fee?" Reluctantly we handed over the coin intended for carfare and prepared to walk home. "Just a moment," with an ironical smile our oracle added, "about the year 2000 the Cambridge Schools are scheduled to get the $5,000,000 they need. Undoubtedly you'll get compensation for this fee then. Ta Ta."

THE LIBERTY PRIZE SPEAKING CONTEST

ON Wednesday, April the twenty-first, the Liberty Prize Speaking Contest was held. For a preliminary the C. H. L. S. Orchestra rendered several selections. Ruth Melnick gained the prize for girls, giving "Fleurette" by Robert Service. Throughout her selection she held the eager attention of the audience, making the scene in the hospital seem vividly real.

Marion Evers was given honorable mention for her delivery of "A Pleasant Half Hour on the Beach." Though the half hour on the beach may not have been particularly pleasant for those involved, Miss Evers certainly made our half hour a pleasant one.

The prize for boys was awarded to Haskell Freedman, who gave "The Message to Garcia." His ringing denunciation of the shiftless worker and vindication of the hard-working executive made him the logical candidate for the prize.

Donald Finlayson, who received honorable mention, sent us into gales of laughter by his interpretation of "An Encounter With an Interviewer."

When the program was completed there was a lengthy wait while the Judges deliberated. At last the decision was made and Mrs. Southwick, for the judges, announced the winners. His honor, Mayor Quinn, made a speech of presentation, and gave out the medals. It is hardly necessary for me to say that such an excellent program would have been impossible without the cheerful cooperation of Miss Hartigan and Mr. Whoriskey.

The program in detail is as follows:

The Bald Headed Man ..... Anon
ETHEL BARTON

The Supposed Speech of John Adams

FACULTY

MR. CLEVELAND has been ready at all times to give us sympathy and advice. His interest in our class, and in each member of it, has been greatly appreciated.

MR. BRAMHALL. The regard which this class has for its Master, Mr. Bramhall, need not be expressed again here. He knows and the class knows.

MISS McELROY is beloved by both the Juniors and Seniors for her kindly yet not too lenient authority in her capacity as dean. Her English classes are pervaded with an air of efficient helpfulness.

MR. BLISS has a pleasant way of teaching history. He is able to make his pupils like the subject and want to do well in it. He has shown great patience with us all and has taken a personal interest in each one.

MR. DOWNEY makes a splendid chemistry teacher. For his deep knowledge of this interesting subject, and for the way in which he makes us enjoy it, we have a great admiration.

MISS MURRAY. Even as dry a subject as Ancient History is interesting when taught by Miss Murray. The interest that she has in history, she is able to pass on to her pupils, and for this they are grateful.

MISS MARGARET M. BALL as a teacher in English is a book in herself. She is a delightful story, combining humor, pathos, and knowledge with everlasting, impressing morals.

MISS BLIGH'S pupils have learned to appreciate her keen sense of humor and have found studying with her to be truly delightful.

MISS BALDWIN is the incarnation of patience, and the interest which she shows in her work goes far toward making us appreciate and enjoy Latin.

MISS BUTLER is known to all and beloved by each. We extend our thanks to her for the interest she has shown in our Literary Club and for her kindly advice and sympathy.

MR. CAIN will be remembered long after the textbooks used in his classes are forgotten. New textbooks may be published but none can fill Mr. Cain's place.

Without MISS CARR'S kindly aid in making out our programs in preparation for college, many of us would be in trouble. She has helped us decide to what college we should go, and then she has helped us get there. We are greatly indebted to her.

MISS CROOK. Our hopeful aspirants for those mountainous College Boards will never forget her patience and understanding. Surely the rest of her pupils will retain a pleasant memory of her.

MISS DEERING teaches French and English with equal grace and skill. She deserves especial thanks for the excellent Minstrel Show that was given at one of the meetings of the French Club.

MR. DERRY in his original and well known manner has all but revived the foremost of the dead languages. He has inspired his classes as perhaps no other teacher could have done. Students of Latin at C. H. L. S. can never forget their friend and teacher, C. T. Derry.

MISS DOLON has instilled in the minds of her pupils a sense of justice and fairness as well as a knowledge of American History. For this we are greatly indebted to her.

MR. DONOVAN is a teacher who has made friends of all of his pupils. As a teacher he is outstandingly successful, and as a "good fellow" he has few equals.

MISS FLANDERS is efficient and in her classes we have not only learned English; she has taught us as well to appreciate art in every form; and her interesting comments on other subjects have broadened our minds.

MISS FORD. Without her kindly helping hand many of us would never have been able to comprehend the intricasies to be met with in studying French. Our memories of Miss Ford will always be of the pleasantest.

MR. GLASHEEN. He is a man of noble worth. His seeds of knowledge which he strews in fertile minds almost always bear prize fruit. He watches his rich harvest grow. He snatches away the weeds, before they have a chance to choke the blossoms of wisdom. At the end, he reaps his harvest in the thanks of the pupils whom he has started on the road to success.

MISS G. HARDY. The girls who are going out into the business world owe a great deal to Miss Hardy, our typewriting teacher. Her sense of fairness and her readiness to give her time and energy to pupils, make us indeed grateful.

MISS M. HARDY. To express our appreciation of Miss Hardy would require more words than we know. As faculty adviser for the Review and Year Book her advice and aid have been invaluable; as a teacher of German and Latin, she is excellent; and as a friend, she is unequaled.

MISS HARTIGAN. Many graduating classes have attempted to express their appreciation to their friend and advisoress, Miss Lillian Hartigan. We feel that it is futile to follow in their footsteps. We prefer to merely let Miss Hartigan know that her work has not been unappreciated.

MISS HITE. We shall always think of Miss Hite as the teacher who understood and sympathized with our pranks and fun. She has shown infinite patience in dealing with her mischievous home room pupils.

MISS HOGAN. As a teacher of English, Miss Hogan will be remembered for her dry humor and quiet interest in the work of her pupils. But as a reader, she has endeared herself to the hearts of all who have been fortunate enough to hear her.

MISS KELLEY. We are greatly indebted to Miss Kelley for our excellent instruction in Mathematics. After being in her classes we can face the College Board exams without fear or trembling.

MISS MASON. Miss Mason's method of conducting her classes makes pupils feel that she has an interest in every one of them. We owe much to her.

MR. MACDONALD. We gladly lift our hats to him as a coach of athletics who has produced champion teams in every line of sport. He combines coaching with teaching and makes a success of both.

MISS McCAFFREY. Miss McCaffrey's charming personality has made her classes a joy. Her willingness to aid and advise has helped many a pupil over a rough spot.

MISS McINTIRE. As teacher and head of the French and Spanish Department she will be remembered as a most energetic and efficient educator; a scholar of marked excellence and a woman of great personal charm.

MISS MOULTON teaches Spanish. She is a teacher whose knowledge of her subject has never been surpassed. Her many trips abroad, and her souvenirs, brought back and shown to her classes, have added to their enthusium for their lessons. She has a fine sense of humor, which must be understood to be really appreciated.

MISS PARKER. To Miss Parker the senior girls who are going to Normal school are greatly indebted for her kindly advice and excellent instruction in English.

MISS RUGGLI. Who could fail to enjoy Chemistry with Miss Ruggli as the teacher? She has made her classes so pleasant that we often wished the periods were longer.

MISS SAMPSON. Miss Sampson is a teacher who possesses a great deal of knowledge. She has, also, a pleasant manner of imparting that knowledge to her pupils, and we will not soon forget what she has taught us.

MR. SCULLY. We can do no better than emulate the example Mr. Scully has set for us, studious and quiet, but kind and interested in us at all times.

MR. SHEEHAN. As teacher, friend, and manager of athletics he has no equal. His teaching is excellent, his friendship something to be cherished, and his ability as manager long to be remembered.

MISS. SLADE. Evry one of her pupils highly respects her good judgement and admires her convincing method of teaching.

MISS STICKNEY. We like Miss Stickney, and we like science when she is our teacher; for she makes it seem alive, interesting, and worthwhile.

MR. SULLIVAN. His efforts are always fruitful, his attempts at humor successful, and his adeptness in teaching unequaled.

MR. WHORISKEY. To turn the most amateurish of amateurs into professional musicians in the space of one year seems an almost incredible task, and yet, Mr. Whoriskey does this remarkable feat year after year. Nothing can express our very deep gratitude.

MISS WILLOUGHBY. Her sympathetic interest in her pupils and the activities of this class will long be remembered. She has always been ready to supply new and original ideas in art and design to meet the many needs of the school.

THE TEACHERS

In every song by poets old
Some tale of love is e'er retold
Or else they sing of ladies sweet,
Lay off'rings at their gentle feet.

Remembered are the high school
"grads"
Their youth so much more beauty adds.

The teachers, though, forgotten
quite,
Aren't sung by day or yet by night.

This age old custom paints them mean
With great care hiding marks
unseen.

You know it's really quite unfair
Unhelped by them report cards bare
Would spoil the best of our fair
dreams,
Would dull the brilliant sun's warm beams.

KLAWHOWJAHA BJUSTOFE CLUB

THE Klawhowjaha Bjustofe Club has just completed a most successful year under the guidance of its advisors, Miss Hartigan and Miss McElroy. Their hearty co-operation and sound advice in collaboration with the initiative and ability of the president, Bernadette Carney have contributed largely to the club's success. The other officers were: Secretary, Barbara Redstone; and Treasurer, Marianne Carney.

The year was devoted chiefly to charitable work. Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners were provided for a number of poor families. A large amount of clothing was solicited and bought for deserving people, mostly children. In addition, an auxiliary fund was established to raise money for the purpose of maintaining a hospital bed or sending ten girls away to camp. The decision has not yet been made.

In addition to the charitable work, many good times were had. Belmont, Waverly, Watertown, and Fresh Pond were the objectives of hikes. At Fresh Pond a tobogganing party was conducted in the usual jolly style. On another occasion, the Rest Inn was the terminus of a sleighing party, which was considered one of the greatest successes of the year. The annual all-day picnic was held this year at Gloucester and the activities of the club were brought to an end by a successful dinner dance.

THE LITERARY CLUB

ON Tuesday, the first week in January, the Literary Club held its first meeting in Room 63.

At this meeting it was decided that the club should be called "The Literary Club of the Cambridge High and Latin School," that its purpose would be to promote a better interest in good literature in the school, and that there would be no numerical limit to the membership.

The Club was founded largely through the efforts of James S. Jennison. After several meetings, the club's constitution, as drawn up by William Flynn, was finally accepted by the members.

The club was very fortunate in having Miss Anna Butler, the head of the English Department, as its faculty adviser. Her suggestions were always very helpful.

Harold Dow, President of the club, in collaboration with Charles Mahady, Secretary, and the Program Committee made out some very excellent programs for the club. Their work was much appreciated by the members.

An effort was made to have a different program for each meeting. Sometimes the members read original stories and essays. The other members would then give constructive criticism of the work as a whole. At other times outside talent was enjoyed. Miss Hogan was especially kind in giving several readings. Many meetings were spent in having one of the members read a short work of a standard author. At the end of the selection, comments and criticisms were made.

This club which has been so well supported in its first year hopes to grow even better in the future, and there is no doubt that it will succeed.

LE CERCLE FRANÇAIS

THE French Club has had a very successful year. The first meeting was held early in December, and James Jennison was chosen vice president to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Shirley Goodwin. Since the president, Shirley Gregson, did not return this year, as expected, Jennison became acting president, discharging that office very capably. He was ably assisted by the following officers: Secretary, Hester Hocking; Treasurer, Edith Kettell; Executive Committee, Frances Callahan, Julie Nelligan, and Anna Burak.

A great variety of interesting and instructive programs were provided. The lives of well-known men, ranging from Victor Hugo to Lafayette and Benjamin Franklin, were discussed as well as the paintings of Puvis de Chavannes in the Boston Public Library. Several amusing plays and pantomimes were presented, and in addition, a very entertaining program of French and English songs was given by a charming French woman, Mme. Cecille Quadri, from the cast of the "Student Prince." Through the efforts of Miss McCarthy, music was made an important factor in the club's entertainment, for each meeting was opened and closed with a French song. A minstrel show was staged at the final meeting.

Great credit for this year's success is due to the teachers who took charge of the different programs and gave so freely of their time and ingenuity in the clever entertainments provided. But back of all, remains Miss McIntire whose enthusiastic support and helpful advice has been the mainstay of the club.

EL CLUB CERVANTINO

In the month of January, the Spanish pupils decided to organize a Spanish Club. A meeting was held, and the club formed. Only the members of Spanish II and III could join the Club.

The officers elected were:

President—Ida Cagna
Vice President—Mary Talarico
Secretary—Beatrice Wallin
Treasurer– Edward Nicholas

The purpose of this club is to have its members become better acquainted with the Spanish language and customs.

A meeting of the Club was held on the last Friday of every month. Many teachers attended as guests. Through the splendid work of the Program Committee, musical selections, dialogues, jokes, and games were given at each meeting.

All those who participated in the program were credited by their Spanish teachers.

HOME ECONOMICS

THIS year has certainly been both pleasant and profitable for the girls of the Home Economics Club.

A call at the Modern Priscilla plant was the first of the many attractions. Following that, we were taught the art of making jellies jell. Needless to say, this information was gratefully received by those who witnessed this demonstration. Next on the program was a visit to the museum where we inspected the collection of paintings by John Sargent. Other trips have been planned for the near future, which, no doubt, will prove to be equally delightful.

George Washington's birthday was celebrated by a party. The kitchen was decorated in red, white and blue, and even the refreshments pleased the eye as well as the palate by appearing in those patriot colors.

The officers chosen for the year were: President, Thelma Ringer; Secretary, Edith Morse; and Treasurer, Mabel White. Our one hope is that the future members of this organization will carry on the work as well, if not better than we have. If this is done, they will reap many benefits from this charming and practical club.

DEBATING TEAM

DEBATING

DURING the season of 1922-1923, our class team defeated the class of 1925. Henry Adelson, Julia Sweeney, and Brooks Bartlett were our representatives. Henry Adelson was chosen to represent our Class in the Debating Council. Our Class Team lost in a closely disputed series of debates to the Class of 1927 during 1923-1924. William Flynn, Henry Adelson, Leo Sullivan, Joseph Callahan, David Dudley, and Saul Andelman were our debaters that year. Adelson, Flynn, and Sullivan were awarded interclass debating medals, for excellence in debating. Henry Adelson was our representative in the Debating Council again this season.

During the season 1924-1925, our class took many honors in debating. William Flynn was assigned the Debating Department of the Review. He also was placed on the Debating Council with Henry Adelson, who was secretary. This year a debating class was conducted under Mr. Donahue.

The season 1925-1926 is the best year of them all for our class. In the underclass debates, Flynn coached both teams, and presided at all debates. Flynn was again at the head of the debating department of the Review. He was also President of the Debating Council and Debating Club. David Nathans and Haskell Freedman were vice-president and secretary, respectively, of the Debating Club. In the Boston Latin Radio Debate, all three debaters and the alternate were members of our class. They were William Flynn, Captain, David Nathans, James Jennison, and Haskell Freedman, alternate. Practically all the participants in the Durrell Debate were members of our class including William Flynn, David Nathans, James Jennison, Fred Meuse, Joseph Maloney, and Haskell Freedman.

CHESS CLUB

THE chess team came through with another very successful year. Under the careful guidance and management of Mr. Sullivan, the coach, the team has won every match except a draw with Brookline. The team deserves to be recognized as the "champion of Massachusetts". All the players did very fine playing. Schuyler Benedict fifth-board man, was never beaten throughout the season by any opponent in a match game.

The players are Norton Long, Paul Andelman, Captain Peter Pertzoff, Marshall Andelman, Schuyler Benedict, Anton Rice, Manager Samuel Fishman, and R. Whitney Pierce. The latter two were substitutes, and helped the team out when a regular player was absent.

In the first match with its ancient rival, Rindge, the team showed its power, when it led the way with a 4½ to 1½ victory. In the second match our team came into its own when it overcame our rivals with a perfect score of 6 to 0. The final match was a 5½ to ½ victory for us.

Brookline caused us considerable worry in the second match, but our pull out was a tie, and we easily won the other two matches.

The team is ready next year to try and carry on the excellent work. It will be built around Benedict, Rice, and M. Andelman as a nucleus.

THE REVIEW

THE staff of the school paper have worked hard this year on "The Review" and their results are praiseworthy. The number of subscribers has increased to about 1300, and more advertisements have been secured than formerly.

The stories have been well written and of great interest. Amusing, detective, thrilling, and descriptive stories have all had their place.

The alumni notes are always of interest to the school, particularly when they are as well written as they have been this year. The class notes have been excellent.

The cartoons have been very amusing, and those that have pictured our sports have brought about an interest in our school activities.

The pages devoted to French and Spanish are always enjoyed by the students of those languages. Much of the interest in the school debates was aroused by the interesting and well written debating notes.

The pages filled with information about our school athletics are always a popular part of "The Review", and this year has been no exception. The girls, particularly those of the freshman and sophomore classes, always read the G. A. A. notes with pleasure. These, too, have been interesting. The exchange department has been well conducted. To know that our paper is read and appreciated all over the world is surely an incentive to do better work.

Throughout the year the staff has been guided and helped by the excellent advice of Miss Hardy.

THANK YOU

NO Year Book Staff can publish a Year Book worthy of the name entirely without support. We have been forced to rely for the most part on our own efforts, but certain students and teachers have rendered inestimable service. We have dedicated this page to the recognition of the debt of gratitude we owe them.

ANTICIPATION

Anticipation! thou treacherous wearer of two masks
One beautiful, sublime and fair to see,
One dark and cruel as the heartless sea.
To thee, I'll prove this fact—an easy task.

This day I wait, and twilight fades into the night,
And I still sit and find deep pain in thee.
Thy dark and fearful face is shown to me.

And yet another day I found sweet pleasure in thee, wretch.
Thy face was fair, thou wore a charming smile,
And thou did'st please me for a short sweet while.

Depart false maiden, leave me to my melancholy introspection;
Away, take both thy pleasure and thy pain,
Take both false masks and tell me now thy name—
Kind maid—cruel wretch—which, which art thou—Anticipation?

FOOTBALL

THE Football team had a fairly successful season considering the fact that the team was young in experience, and that it was handicaped throughout the season by a number of unfortunate injuries to the players. Of the nine games the Latin School team won two, tied two and lost five. Cambridge Latin opened its season successfully by defeating Newburyport High School 7-0. In its next game Latin School held the strong Dean Academy team to a scoreless tie. By virtue of its victory over Rindge, Latin School won the championship of Cambridge. In this game it was a sensational catch of a long forward by Joe O'Connell that put the Cantabs in a scoring position, and allowed Gibson to plow through the line a few minutes later for the only score of the game.

Owing to a great number of injuries received in the Rindge game, Latin School was defeated in its next four games.

The redeeming feature of the season was, however, the Everett game. In this game Latin School held the championship Everett team to a scoreless tie.

Jerry Sullivan, captain of the team, was one of the outstanding players in the suburban league.

Charles Cook, who starred in the line, has been elected to captain next year's team.

HOCKEY

THE Hockey team had a very successful season this year. It shared the championship honors with Melrose and Newton. Although at the beginning of the season Captain Gibson, Fred Harlow, and Leon Fitzgerald were the only veterans on hand, Coach MacDonald built up a winning combination.

Latin School defeated such strong teams as: Boston Latin, Boston English, House of Angel Guardian, Belmont, Exeter Academy, Brookline, Pomfret, Stoneham, and Newton. The only high school teams to defeat the Latin School were Newton and Melrose. Latin School finished third in the league standing, thus gaining the right to play in the championship games. In the Round-robbin Series Latin defeated Newton and Stoneham and lost to Melrose.

The outstanding star of the season was Leon Fitzgerald. By his wonderful exhibition in the Round-robbin Series, Fitzgerald proved that he is the best school boy goal tender ever produced in this section.

Captain Gibson played a very good game this season even though he was handicapped at the opening by sickness.

Fred Harlow, Pop Horan, Fred Meuse, Edda Kerr, and Frank MacGowan were among the other players who helped Latin School to win the championship.

CROSS COUNTRY

THE Cross Country team started the season well when seventy-five candidates reported in answer to Coach Smith's call.

The letter men of last year's squad to report were Captain Joe Maloney, Charlie Murray, Patsy Dente, Joe Trainor, Russ Wood, and Henry Adelson. Fred Meuse, ex-captain and letter man of two years ago and Pete Beshgetur were two other outstanding candidates.

The team started the season well by defeating Stoneham to the score of 16-68.

The next team to suffer defeat at the hands of the Latin school was the strong St. John's prep team 15-48. The Wakefield race was a decisive victory for the Latin banners 15-57.

Latin School proved what a powerful team it had by defeating Tufts' Freshmen by the score of 15-83. Latin School's next victory was gained over Woburn by the overwhelming score of 15-52. The undefeated Latin team added another victory to its long string when it easily defeated the Springfield College Freshman Team by the perfect score of 15-50. The undefeated Latin banners ended their season in glory when they defeated Rindge 35-71. This was the first time that a Latin School Cross Country Team gained a victory over Rindge in a dual meet. The runners to win their letters in this meet were Captain Maloney, Trainor, Thompson, Meuse, Adelson, Beshgetur, Murray and Bill Toomey Manager.

This year Latin School had the best team it ever had and it won all of its seven dual meets. They defeated five of their opponents by perfect scores and Rindge by one of the lowest scores ever made in their dual meet.

There is no high school or prep school in the State that can show a better record than that of Cambridge High and Latin School.

The baseball team started the season very successfully by defeating the strong Newton nine 6-4. Coach MacDonald feels sure that he will have a winning team this year, and possibly a championship one.

The team is well fortified with veterans. The infield is made up of such stars as Captain Gibson, Horan, Cote, McGowan, and Cook. Towle, McKennon, McCusker, and McFadgen will do the pitching. Temple, Dente, and Davis will patrol the outfield. The team has, also, a number of capable substitutes for each position.

SWIMMING TEAM

THE High and Latin School Swimming team closed a very successful season, considering the fact that but two veterans were available from last year's team which placed third in the New England Interscholastic Swimming Meet. Since our swimmers won over 50% of their dual swimming meets, their record was indeed creditable, especially when one considers the fact the greater portion of the team was composed of Sophomores and Freshmen. Those who earned their letters this season are the following: Captain Henry Barber, Carl Hoss, Ralph Lynch, Bernard Goldenburg, Cecil Vincent, Robert Daly, Ange Francoeur, Lawrence Sullivan, George Foley, Stuart Sindh, Manser Kimball, and David Cohen.

Students of this school can look forward to a very good team for the next few years as there will be many veterans who will improve with practice.

TENNIS

THE C. H. L. S. tennis team expects to open its second year against Winchester May 14th. It has two veterans of last year in Cohen and Rice and many new prospects to build around.

Thirty-three candidates competed in the tournament which carries with it positions on the team, the championship of the school and the captaincy of the team.

The tournament was won by Alexander Cohen when he defeated Anton Rice in the finals. The semi-finalists and those who made the team are Cohen, 1; Rice, 2; Macbeth, 3; Biggar, 4; and Pertzoff, 5.

Harry Macbeth furnished the only upset by displacing Biggar and Pertzoff who will play in the doubles.

Top row, left to right: W. Nansen, R. Anderson, M. Fort, K. McCullum, E. Harrington, J. Hughes
Front row: J. Langone, J. Trainor, J. Mahoney, F. Meuse, C. Murray

TRACK

TRACK, which has been in a wretched state in this school for the last few years, seems at last to have aroused some interest among the boys. Outdoor track was called for about April first, and one hundred boys reported. This is the largest squad which has ever represented the track team.

An interclass meet was held on April 23, and the meet was won by the Seniors with a total of 56.9 points.

In the Boston College Interscholastics, "Joe" Maloney and "Fred" Meuse won four points in the half-mile. Maloney finished second and Meuse third.

In the next dual meet Latin school defeated Everett by the score of 57-20. Everett took only two first places, these in the 100 yard dash and the shotput. The high point scorers in this meet for Latin school were "Joe" Maloney, "Fred" Meuse, "Don" Brewer, "Tom" Houlihan, "Joe" Trainor, and McCullan.

With nine meets, Latin School has a difficult schedule but Mr. Sheehan, coach, and Manager Russel Wood feel assured that the team will have a successful season.

Top row, left to right: J. Crowley, D. Cohen, R. Morize, W. Mowl, F. Powers, B. Brooks, (Manager)

CREW

THE prospect for the success of the crew this year is one of the most favorable in many years. The fact, that this year, Latin School is going to be represented by two eight oar shells and also two four oar shells will give more boys an opportunity to participate in this sport. Raymond Parker, one of the members of last year's championship crew, has been elected captain of this year's crew. Mr. Manning has been appointed coach of the team for this year. The most promising of the candidates who are trying out for the team are Ed Grueby, Fran Powers, Don Finlayson, and Bill Dansie. Leo Sullivan, who has proved himself to be one of the best schoolboy coxs, will direct the team again this year.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

G. A. A.

THE year 1925-1926 has been a very successful one for the Girls Athletic Association. The members, under the leadership of Marianne Carney, their president, have enjoyed many pleasant meetings.

Early in the fall, the Freshmen were initiated into the organization, and this affair was followed by the Freshman Party.

Throughout the winter, there were basketball games in the gym. Most of these were between the classes, but we also played games with The Girls' High School of Boston, with Newton, and with Medford. The games this year were particularly interesting because we were able to organize Senior and Junior Teams.

The annual Girl-Boy Dance was held in January. As usual, this was a very successful affair.

A sleigh ride was planned in February, but the idea had to be given up on account of the bad weather.

During the spring there were baseball games between the classes and with the grammar school teams. Swimming practice was held at the Y. M. C. A. every Saturday morning.

The Annual G. A. A. picnic was held early in June at Miss Brown's Summer home at Kendall Green.

Top row, left to right: P. Sage, M. Farrington, L. Novak, F. Donovan
Front row: M. Culhane, E. Jones, E. Kurzman

THE SENIOR BASKET BALL TEAM

THE Senior Basket Ball Team was formed this year in spite of many difficulties. There was very little practice on account of the small number of girls reporting. However, a team was picked, not a difficult task since only eight or ten girls reported regularly, and several games were played. The playing was confined to interclass competition. Several games were played with the Juniors and, although the Seniors fought gamely and showed some excellent playing, they lost to the superior team-work of their opponents.

However, they successfully defeated the Freshman in a very creditable game and thus maintained their dignity.

The team, ably captained by Edith Jones, was: Muriel Farrington, and Frances Donovan, Forwards; Lillian Novak, jumping center; Margaret Culhane, side center; Edith Jones, Priscilla Sage, guards; Esther Kirzman, substitute; Dorothy Hager, substitute.

The team certainly appreciates the kindness of Miss Brown who gave freely of her much demanded time and coaching.

Know All Men by These Presents. That we, the Class of 1926 of the Cambridge High and Latin School in the city of Cambridge, county of Middlesex, and the state of Massachusetts, being perfectly able to comprehend, remember, and understand why we do this deed, do solemnly construct and draw up this our last will and testament, and declare all other wills to be null, void, and without the power to tend legal action.

We unhesitatingly and duly appoint Miss Mary C. Hardy as executrix of this our last will and the said Miss Hardy being skilled in the art of executing not only "wills" but even the minds and bodies of her subjects, we, the Class of 1926, trust that these requests will be earnestly and faithfully carried out.

1st. We bequeath to our successors, the Class of 1927, the great honor and dignity which is an attribute of the Senior Class.

2nd. We leave to the said successors all momentary visions of excellent marks, all nightmares and tortures brought on by failures, term tests, and college board exams.

3rd. To the said Class of 1927 we leave all the hand carved desks and artistically decorated text books which are used in fourth year work.

4th. We devise and bequeath our autographic expert to all those unfortunate beings who experience difficulty in signing notes, excuses, or report cards.

5th. We gladly leave all stray ponies of Latin breed to those who would gallop after knowledge.

6th. To the Class of 1927 we bequeath our undeniable acumen for carrying on social activities.

7th. We benificently donate the financial profits derived from the Liberty Prize Speaking Contest and the Durrell Debate to a fund for purchasing the following greatly needed accessories:

1. An annual subscription to "Life" and to "College Humor." The magazines shall be housed in the Classical Library.
2. One complete heating system for the "Review Office."
3. A complete set of "First-Aid Medicines" for the nurse.

4. An elevator, so that those residing on the second and third floors may have the same opportunities for avoiding the disgrace of tardiness that the fortunate Freshmen have.
5. One pencil sharpener for each room in the school.
6. The missing parts of the excellent moving picture machine given by the Class of 1925, and some pictures to accompany said parts.
7. A copy of "How to Grow Tall" for each prospective Freshman. These volumes should be distributed during the last year at grammar school to each incoming student, and a volume of "The Respect Due to One's Elders," to accompany each copy of aforesaid work.
8. A volume of Drummond's famous treatise on Love, entitled "The Greatest Thing in the World," for each member of the faculty.
9. We leave to the Class of 1927 the statute of Venus de Milo, hoping that that Class will not leave her unguarded, undraped, unwept for.
10. Lastly, we leave all those things not yet discovered, all the great things that we have accomplished, our excellent reputation, our deep sorrow for all of our successors, all our worries, troubles, debts, and the excruciating pleasure of preserving our dear memory.

Realizing that we quickly approach the end, we ask on this 10th day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-six, at the Cambridge High and Latin School, Cambridge, Massachusetts, that these directions be executed immediately and with the greatest of care. With trembling hand, we attach this, our most noble signature,

THE CLASS OF 1926.

Witnessed with unbounded pleasure by:

THE FACULTY
A FRESHMAN
OURSELVES.

Miss B. (Pointing to pencil shavings under pupil's desk): "What are those little things under your desk?"

R. W. P. (Blushing): "My feet, mam."

Miss P.: "What student was so rude as to laugh out loud?"

Fresh: "I laughed up my sleeve, but there's a hole in the elbow."

Father: "Didn't I hear the clock strike three as you came in last night, son?"

Son: "Yes, sir. You see, it started to strike seven, but I stopped it so it wouldn't wake you up."

When millionaires ride in flivvers—
When it snows in sunny Spain—
When sixty miles an hour is the speed of B. & M. trains—
When palm trees grow in Labrador—
When Sahara sands are muddy—
When Ben Turpin is elected President—
That's when I'd like to study.

Mother: "What's Dorris doing?"

Father: "Making a shrimp salad."

Mother: "I didn't know we had any shrimp in the house."

Father: "We haven't, but there's one going to call on her this evening."

A dance, a data—
Perchance out lata—
A classa, a quizza—
No passa, gee whizza.

I rose and gave her my seat;
I could not let her stand—
She made me think of mother,
With that strap held in her hand.

Miss P.: "Did you write a poem for the Review?"

P. McCann: "Sure."

Miss P.: "What did you write on?"

P. McCann: "Paper, of course."

"Waiter, do you follow the horses?" said Bill.

"Certainly not, sir," said the waiter.

"Well, then I guess I won't give you a tip."

MARY: "Do you think you are as pretty as I?"

HELEN: "Sure."

MARY: "Gee but you are conceited."

"Have you read Beowulf?" teacher asked.

"No, I don't like animal stories," answered Doris.

"John, name an island in the possession of United States."

JOHN: "Huh? Why a—"

TEACHER: "Correct."

GRACE: "I'm one of the 400."

DOT: "What one of the ciphers?"

MAN (in drug store): "I want some consecrated lye."

DRUGGIST: "You mean concentrated lye."

"It does nutmeg any difference. That's what I camphor. What does it sulphur?"

"Fifteen cents, I never cinnamon with so much wit."

"Well, I should myrrh-myrrh. Yet I amonia novice at it.

KUSTOMER: "Give me a comb without pyorrhea."

KLERK: "Whaddaya mean?"

KUSTOMER: "One whose teeth won't fall out."

Yes, you can be cured," replied the great surgeon, as he finished his examination and stood by the bed of the suffering merchant.

"Vat vill idt cost?" asked the patient.

"Three hundred dollars."

"Vell you got to shade your price," said the Hebrew. "You should see the bid I got from the undertaker."

CUSTOMER: "Hey, waiter, what kind of blankety blank coffee do you call this junk, anyhow?"

WAITER: "Why, that Plaster House coffee, sir; very fine grade I assure you, sir."

CUSTOMER: "Plaster House coffee, hey? Well, I'll de darned if I can find the house, but a lot of the grounds are in here."

The young man was bragging in the boarding-house.

"Now, then," said the listener, impatiently, "we've heard enough about what you can do. Tell us if there is anything you can't do, and I'll undertake to do it myself."

"Well," came the prompt reply, "I can't pay my bill."

Dear Mr. Colgate:

I bought a tube of your shaving cream. It says no mug required. What shall I shave?

Yours truly,
A. Fishman.

PRISONER: "I only hit him with a tomato, your honor."

JUDGE: "The man was in the hospital for three months. It doesn't seem reasonable."

PRISONER: "Well, you see, the tomato had a can around it."

"My son, my pigmy counterpart," exclaimed the speaker of the occasion.

"My son, my pig, my counterpart," wrote the editor in the local newspaper.

LANDLADY (looking in a cup of coffee): "Looks like rain today, don't it?"

BOARDER (looking in ditto): "Yes, but it smells like coffee."

It must be three years since I've seen you last. I hardly knew you you've aged so.

Well I wouldn't have known you except for the dress.

What makes the wind howl so?

I believe that's it.

A Philadelphia man called up a bird store and said: "Send up thirty thousand cockroaches at once."

"What in Heaven's name do you want with thirty thousand cockroaches?" asked the dealer.

"Well," said the Philadelphia man: "My lease states that I must leave these premises as I found them, and I'm moving today."

"Oh what a cute dolly," said an old lady to a child, "is it one that says 'mama'?"

"Oh no," said the child, "this in a modern dolly; she says 'Oh boy'."

DICK: "How long will I have to wait for a shave?"

BARBER: "Years, Sonny, years."

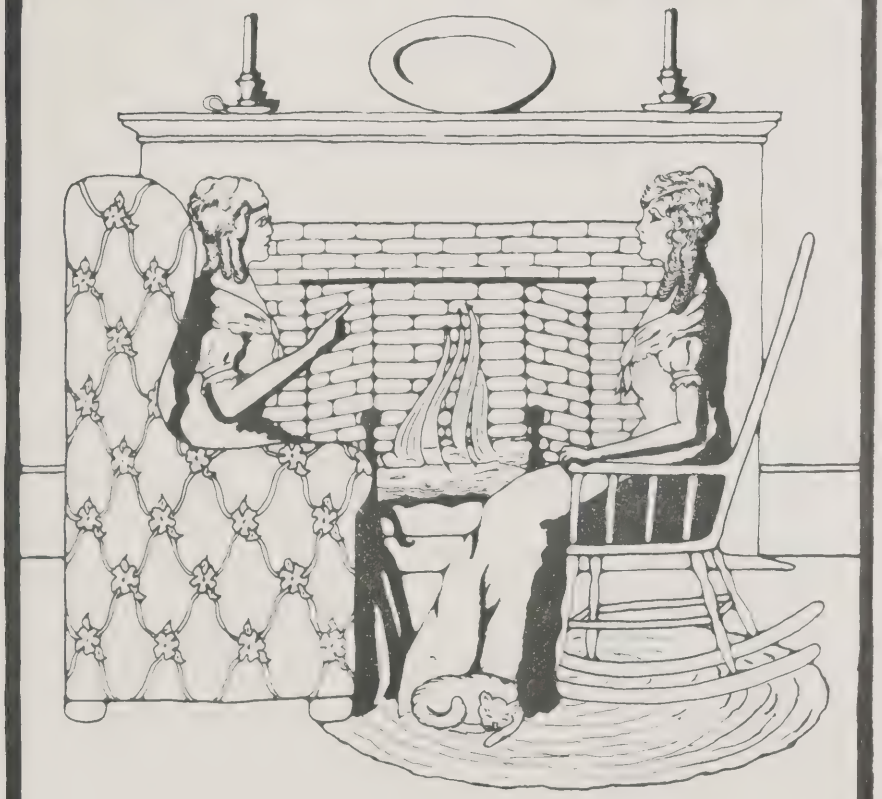

THE Indian turned, and descended the other side of the mountain. He did not know what lay before him; for there was a heavy fog in the valley. But he went ahead bravely. Suddenly the sun came out and drove away the fog. Stretching out before him were broad plains and swiftly flowing rivers. In the rosy glow of the sun, this place seemed even better than the one he had left. Then the Indian was no longer sad; for he had found a home for himself and his tribe.

So it is with us. We do not know what we shall find out in the world. But if we go ahead bravely, the sun of promise will come out and chase away our fog of doubt. Before us may be pleasures and great success. And in the rosy glow of future promise the days ahead of us seem as pleasant as those we have spent in school. Somewhere, out in the world, is a place for each one of us. We need not be afraid.

ADVERTISERS

I WISH to call the personal attention of the students, faculty, alumni, and friends of Cambridge High and Latin School to the names of the merchants and manufacturers who are using this book as an advertising medium, and who have cordially done their share in making this Year Book a success.
